The following talking points were used by Teladoc Health, Inc. on August 27, 2020.

1. What is the impact of Teladoc's merger with Livongo and the Livongo special dividend on the outstanding convertible notes issued by Teladoc?

Neither the merger nor special dividend will have any direct impact on the outstanding Teladoc convertible notes, including with respect to the conversion rates or right to convert such notes. The special dividend you may have heard referred to, is a special dividend paid with respect to Livongo shares. The special dividend is not paid with respect to Teladoc shares, and does not impact the conversion rates or the right to convert Teladoc convertible notes.

2. What is the impact of the merger and the Livongo special dividend on the outstanding convertible notes issued by Livongo?

The merger and the special dividend will impact the Livongo convertible notes.

As a result of the special dividend of $7.09 per Livongo share declared by Livongo and paid to Livongo shareholders of record immediately prior to the effective time of the merger, the conversion rate in effect immediately prior to the open of business on the ex-dividend date for the special dividend (which conversion rate we refer to as the "original conversion rate") will be increased immediately after the open of business on such ex-dividend date to be equal to (a) the original conversion rate multiplied by (b) the quotient of (i) the last reported sale price of Livongo's common stock on the trading day immediately preceding such ex-dividend date, divided by (ii) such price less the amount of the special dividend per share of Livongo common stock. This adjustment is intended to make the noteholders whole for the special dividend by increasing the conversion rate by a corresponding amount.

In connection with the closing of the merger, the Livongo convertible notes will thereafter become convertible into the merger consideration – i.e., 0.5920 shares of Teladoc common stock and $4.24 in cash (but not the special dividend) for each share of Livongo stock that would have been issuable upon conversion of the Livongo convertible notes immediately prior to the closing of the merger (but after the distribution of the special dividend).
